Blame Kerosene Blast In Liverpool Tragedy

Mother, Baby and Her Grandmother Burned to Death; 2 Others Seared by Flames

EAST LIVERPOOL, Dec. 18.—Firemen today blamed an explosion of kerosene as the cause of a fire which brought death to two women and a nine-day-old baby.

The oil evidently had been poured on a coal stove to hasten the flames, the firemen said.

Mrs. Verna Mullen, 28, her baby and her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Roush, 74, were the dead. Mrs. Mullen's 20-month-old daughter, Patricia, was seriously burned. Carl Norris, 20, brother of Mrs. Mullen, who lived next door with the grandmother, was burned and cut in a rescue attempt.

When flames shot up the mother and baby were trapped in a second-floor room. Patricia was on the first floor.

The grandmother ran into the house to rescue the screaming victims but flames cut off her path at a stairway. She died several hours later in a hospital. Norris kicked in a window and entered, but he, too, was driven back.

James Mullen, husband and father, was at work in Midland, Pa., at the time, shortly before the supper hour.

Firemen carried the bodies of Mrs. Mullen, and the infant, found together on the floor, over a porch roof after flames and smoke made it impossible for them to use the first floor entrance.

Finding a coal fire burning in the kitchen stove, they declared their belief that kerosene oil had been poured upon smoldering coals to hasten the flames and the resultant explosion caused the whole lower portion of the house to be filled with fire and smoke.

The blaze enveloped the two-story frame structure so rapidly that the mother and her child were unable to leave the second-floor bed room.

Firemen succeeded in putting out the blaze but not until the loss reached an estimated $2,000. The house was owned by the Federal Building & Savings Co. here.

Contest For Sheriff

George Hayes of East Liverpool, city sheriff under two administrations, is said to be a sure entry in the race. William J. Barlow of Liverpool is another who has his friends here. Barlow served two terms as sheriff and in 1934 was an unsuccessful candidate for county auditor.

John Cannell of East Palestine is also reported to have his name on the sheriff's office.

Barlow leaves no candidate from northern end of the county, but it is known that at least one man is running out sentiment of his in this city.

Two of the three county commissioners are to be filled next year and it seems possible that several men may enter this year's fight, although an early election has been made to have only one Republican candidate from the north and one from the south end of the county.

Two Commissioners

James of Austin I. Getz of Salem, Frank M. Fisher of St. Clair and both Democrats, expire year and both will seek reelection. Conrad Berg (D) of Lima is a hold-over for two years.

Verdrey of East Liverpool, out by a few votes in the election two years ago, already has announced himself as a Republican candidate for commissioner. East Liverpool also may offer two others, Golden and Howard Menor.

In the "considering class" at present, John McNamee, near Yellow Creek township, near Meigs, who was defeated two years ago for re-election may seek nomination again.

McNamee has an avowed candidate, C. C. McCandless and many Republicans have expressed hope that no contest develop in order that a Salem candidate might have a better chance of being nominated. However, it is understood that Harry Weikart, a candidate for commissioner, is running the contest some thought present.

Richard O. Wilson of East Liverpool has announced his candidacy for Republican nomination for re-

Ohio Motorists Given Christmas Gift From State

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18.—Everybody's happy about the automobile license situation in Ohio.

The state has postponed the license deadline to April 1. That, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank West said today, wiped an item of more than $2,000,000 off Ohio's Christmas shopping list.

State Loses Nothing

But the state will lose nothing, he added, because it would make up most of the difference "from gasoline taxes of drivers who usually lay up their cars from Jan. 1, until April 1, when they could buy plates at a one-quarter reduction from the full price."

He said operators of thousands of trucks and cars used in seasonal trades would purchase plates at full price April 1. Ordinarily these operators, taking their cars out of service for the winter months, buy plates after the first quarterly reduction.

"Christmas, tax-paying, and purchase of automobile tags," West said, "was too much for one period. By the time most people get through with Christmas and taxes, there wasn't much left for auto licenses."

Tags Out March 1

The 1936 plates will be available March 1, and may be displayed after March 10.

This year Ohio sold 1,386,577 pairs of plates at full price during the first quarter, and 215,229 pairs during the third-quarter at one-fourth of the full price.

Anyone purchasing a new car between Jan. 1 and March 1 will buy a 1935 license and pay one-fourth of the regular fee.

Woman Is Injured When Hit by Auto

Miss Belle M. Golladay of 340 East Fifth st., suffered a multiple fracture of the right leg above the ankle when struck by an automobile driven by R. W. Miner of 905 Franklin st., at 6:45 p. m. Tuesday at the intersection of East State st. and Union ave.

Miner told police he hit Miss Golladay when he attempted to turn left on State st., from Union ave.

The driver took Miss Golladay to the Central Clinic.

A.A. GALBREATH, FORMER STATE SENATOR, DIES

Succumbs In City Hospital Here Following Operation

WAS ACTIVE IN EDUCATION FIELD

Funeral Service To Be Held Saturday at Home In Rogers

Asher A. Galbreath, 71, of Rogers, who served as a state senator, for two terms, from 1912 to 1916, died at 4:30 a. m. today in Salem City hospital, following an operation a week ago.

A graduate of Mount Union college in 1888, he held B. S., M. A., Ph. D., and LL.D. degrees from the Methodist ministry.

Galbreath was born June 8, 1864, in Fairfield township near Leetonia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Galbreath, who were Quakers.

Attended County Schools

Before entering Mount Union college he attended rural schools in Columbiana county and Lisbon High school.

He was married to Anna Randolph June 5, 1888. Shortly afterwards he moved to Missouri and while there he was admitted to the bar.

Galbreath was a member of the county board of education for four years and was active in educational work generally throughout the county.

In 1889, he was a member of a group which established Volant college, at Volant, Pa., which operated for several years and then disbanded.

However, for the last 30 years he had managed the Carnegie Correspondence school at Rogers.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Rogers and taught the Men's Bible class of the church. He also was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge at Rogers. In politics, he was a Republican.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edith Elliott, former Columbiana county recorder and now a state examiner, residing near Cleveland; Mrs. Louise Gornley of Columbiana and Mrs. Ruth Wyker of Columbus.

Funeral Rites Saturday

Two sons, Edward and Everett of Rogers, also survive. A son, John, died in 1928. He also leaves a brother, James Galbreath of Fairfield township, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Carr of Wesleyville, Pa., and 10 grandchildren.

A brother, the late C. B. Galbreath, was a state librarian.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home in Rogers in charge of Rev. T. J. Maxwell of the M. E. church. Burial will be in East Carmel cemetery, near Rogers.

CITY IS CARING FOR ITS NEEDY

60 On Relief Roll; Mrs. Winifred Hill Remains As Supervisor

City council, meeting last night, reported that approximately 60 persons are being cared for by the city as relief clients, since the government abandoned aid, and that the expenditure for relief here since the first of the month has amounted to only $510.60.

It was the consensus of officials that the relief problem has been handled more efficiently here than in many Ohio cities.

Transfer Funds

The relief expenses to date were made out of a $1,000 appropriation by council on Dec. 3.

At the meeting last night the council, upon a motion by George McArthur and Samuel Krauss, approved an emergency ordinance transferring $200 from the general fund to the poor relief fund to aid in caring for needy through December.

In compliance with a suggestion of county commissioners, council okayed a resolution approving the retention of Mrs. Winifred Hill as relief case supervisor for the city.

Retain Case Workers

The councilmen were in receipt of an announcement by the commissioners that the federal and county governments had agreed to retain all county relief supervisors and the salaries would be paid by the two organizations.

This move saves the city from paying Mrs. Hill a salary which it had intended to pay. Council approved a wage of $62.50 a month for her which she would receive in the event the federal aid for her pay would be halted.

However, under the present setup, Mrs. Hill will continue as relief supervisor for Salem on a full-time job at no expense to the city, it was pointed out by the councilmen.

C. C. GIBSON HOST TO HIGH GRIDDERS AT TURKEY DINNER

Turkey will be in order for the entire Salem High school 1935 football squad when the gridders will be guests of C. C. Gibson at his annual griddon banquet at 6 this evening at the Memorial building.

Headed by Coach Lew Smith and Assistant Coach Herb Brown, the faculty members of the high school who were officially connected with the griddon activities of the Quakers, will also attend the banquet.

Pred Cope, faculty manager, will act as chairman of the affair. Short talks will be given by members of the squad and guests.

The Quaker grid team won five, lost three and tied two games this last season.

Stores Open Each Night for Shoppers

Beginning tomorrow night, Salem stores will extend their closing hour in order to accommodate shoppers from the city and vicinity.

During the remainder of the week, and Monday and Tuesday of next week, stores will be open until 9 o'clock each night.

Heir Snatcher Sends Crude Ransom Note

Caleb J. Milne, IV Mrs. Frederica Milne Caleb Milne, Jr.

Department of justice men were called in on the mysterious disappearance of Caleb J. Milne, IV, 22, left, would-be mystery writer and grandson of a wealthy retired Philadelphia textile manufacturer, when relatives received a crude ransom note pieced together from words clipped from newspapers. It was learned that young Milne left his New York City apartment on December 14 to visit the bedside of his grandfather, Caleb Milne, Jr., right, who was supposed to have been seriously ill at his home in Germantown, Pa. Mrs. Frederica Milne, mother of the missing youth, is pictured, center, visiting the son's apartment from which he disappeared.

City council adjourned Tuesday night until 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 31, for its final meeting of the year.

The special session will allow the council to enact any legislation that may arise in the meantime. However, a quiet session is anticipated.

Councilman C. F. Zimmerman of the First ward and Councilman-at-Large George McArthur are the only members of council who will retain their seats when the incoming administrations take office.

The transfers were made, Lyman Goodballet, finance committee chairman, announced, because the city has received additional revenue from the state motor vehicle license fund.

An ordinance transferring $1,500 from the gasoline tax fund to the payroll laborers' fund under street maintenance and repair was passed on motions by Councilmen George McArthur and Joseph Calladine.

Another measure was approved transferring $200 from the motor vehicle license fund to the materials fund upon a motion by C. F. Zimmerman and Joseph Calladine.

The council also passed an ordinance transferring $4,000 from the water works fund to the pipe extensions fund on a motion by George McArthur and C. F. Zimmerman.

Goodballet informed council that funds are not available at present for the city's share of expense in the Madison st. WPA sewer project. City Engineer P. C. Barkhoff will be notified.

Relief workers, in the meantime, are busy on two other WPA jobs in the city which are providing steady employment to about 100 men, it was announced.

A suggestion by Councilman George McArthur that property owners on streets where WPA sewer projects are under way or have been completed, be assessed a "tapping-in" fee, was tabled upon recommendations of C. F. Zimmerman and Samuel Krauss.

ACTRESS FEARED GANG'S BULLETS

Thelma Todd Victim of Extortion Threats; Two Arrested

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Fear of gangland bullets haunted Thelma Todd in the last hours of her life.

The winsome screen star's chauffeur told police shortly before a coroner's jury was summoned today to probe the riddle of her death.

The chauffeur, Ernest O. Peters, said he drove the statuesque blonde beauty from a Hollywood cafe to her seaside apartment at breakfast speed a few hours before she died under mysterious circumstances Sunday.

"Miss Todd was afraid," Peters said, "because she had been the target of extortion threats which had caused the arrest of two men. She told me to drive at top speed and not to make boulevard stops."

Peters said he "drove between 65 to 70 miles an hour" on the way to the actress' apartment above "Thelma Todd's sidewalk cafe" north of Santa Monica on the ocean side highway.

Sometime between 4 a. m. and 4 p. m. Sunday, after Peters returned to his Hollywood auto livery stand, the glamorous comedienne died in her luxurious town car in a garage a few hundred yards up a steep roadway from her apartment.

Voland West, her partner in the seaside cafe venture, told police he had "looked out" Miss Todd.

Subpoenaed besides Peters and West to tell of the last hours of the 30-year-old actress were: Sid Grauman, theatrical impresario, who telephoned West at 2 a. m. Sunday at Miss Todd's request to inform him she was leaving for home.

Mrs. Alice Todd, the star's mother, Mrs. Wallace Ford, wife of the actor, who said she received a cryptic telephone call from Miss Todd Sunday.

Office of Recorder Reaches Peak Week

LIBSON, Dec. 18.—A new high record for business in the office of County Recorder J. P. Calhoun was reached this week, when it was revealed that 14,839 instruments were filed for record. Receipts of the office so far this year total $10,278.94.

During the fiscal year, 10,559 chattel mortgages were filed and, in addition, 4,304 deeds, mortgages and leases were recorded.

"It is surprising the number of chattel mortgages being cancelled," Calhoun said. "This would indicate that business conditions in Columbiana county are steadily improving."

January Jurors To Be Drawn Friday

LIBSON, Dec. 18.—Jury Commissioner Charles W. Wilson of Salem and Lee C. Cooper of East Liverpool will meet here Friday to draw 20 names from the jury wheel for the selection of grand jurors for the January term of court.

At the same time, the court has ordered the drawing of 25 names of persons who will serve as petit jurors for the first three weeks of jury trials during the new term.

ADMITTS HE HIT INFANT

Frank Townsend, In Jail, Said He Feared Baby Would Have Spasm

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 18.—Frank Townsend, 33-year-old farm worker, who says God told him in 1926 that his first-born child would be "taken by Christ", is in Mahoning county jail today charged with the unlawful killing of his 10-month-old only son.

Townsend was arrested last night by Sheriff Ralph E. Elser, at a farm where he was working near his home on the North Benton road, two miles northwest of Salem.

"Unlawful Killing"

A warrant charging "unlawful killing" was signed by Constable Frank French.

Arraigned before Justice Charles Martin in Boardman this afternoon, Townsend pleaded not guilty and his bond was set at $2,500.

The young farmer admitted he had slapped the child, "probably harder than I should have," to "rid it of bad habits and because it was crying too much." An autopsy showed the baby's death Sunday was due to a brain hemorrhage caused by blows.

"The baby's grandmother picked the baby up and fussed with it every time it cried," Townsend said. "My wife learned from people at the Crittenden home (an institution for unmarried mothers) that the baby should not be pampered. Yet her mother insisted on babying it."

On Dec. 9, three days after Townsend's wife reached her 18th birthday, the baby cried more than usual. He had told the mother not to coddle it and the baby continued crying when it got no attention.

Afraid of Spasm

"I was afraid it was going to have a spasm," Townsend said. "So I slapped it several times to distract its attention. I didn't mean to slap it hard."

Townsend told a rambling story of visions of Christ, which first came in 1918, when he resolved "to live the sort of life Christ would live if he were on earth."

Funeral service for the child was held yesterday afternoon at the Arbaugh Funeral home here, attended by the parents and approximately 15 relatives and friends. Burial was in the Bunker Hill church cemetery.

MR. HOOVER AT ST. LOUIS

Many of those who have studied carefully former President Hoover's long speech at St. Louis must be willing to concede it strengthens the conjecture that Mr. Hoover is an active candidate. The tone of the St. Louis speech is unmistakably that of a man seeking vindication.

Mr. Hoover might use such a tone and still not be a candidate. He might be striving, as a common explanation has it, to lay down the lines of battle so clearly that all doubt of the Republican party's position would be erased. In that way, Mr. Hoover would be vindicated through his party's platform and its selection of a candidate committed to his views.

There remains, however, another and stronger possibility—that Mr. Hoover not only is willing to be the Republican presidential candidate next year but wants to be the candidate. Usually there is mentioned the handicap under which he would run against President Roosevelt, the handicap of being the defeated candidate in 1932. But no one who has given careful attention to Mr. Hoover's recent speeches can deny that much of the handicap is imaginary. When convention dark horses are being considered, the name of Herbert Hoover cannot be overlooked.

The St. Louis speech introduces a personal, specific approach in Mr. Hoover's political speechmaking. It is as though he had laid the foundation for his position with generalities and was beginning to fit together the details of the structure. Administration and cost of relief, certainly one of the two obvious issues, received most of Mr. Hoover's attention. Federal spending, the other obvious issue, and conditions surrounding the bank moratorium in March, 1933, were discussed.

The public will be interested in Mr. Hoover's proposals for an alternative relief policy. He suggests four guiding rules. First, public works projects should be confined to projects which meet national needs. Relief money should not be spent on sociological experiments.

Second, administration of direct relief should be decentralized. Organization of relief on a voluntary basis should be encouraged. Federal funds should be halved, then divided among the states, with a requirement making it necessary for local authorities to "find" 5 percent, as a check on avoidable waste. Obviously, Mr. Hoover has in mind a definite alternative program of relief, different in nearly every detail from the present relief program, which actually is less a program than the accidental result of several years of costly experimentation.

Third, the relief policy should be revised immediately, to insure an honest, clean election. It is no secret that relief beneficiaries are encouraged to believe that relief started with the Roosevelt new deal and will be stopped if its present administrators, most of them Democrats, are not retained in office.

Fourth, the relief problem should be approached more vigorously from the direction of industrial stimulation, which is the only satisfactory solution. If confidence were restored, unemployment would decrease quickly without recourse to artificial methods.

These are sound proposals. Those who have been saying Herbert Hoover could not command a sympathetic audience among the ordinary run of citizens are forced to revise their estimate of his political appeal on the basis of the incisive and aggressive speech he made at St. Louis.

THE USUAL REPLY

The conservation council of Ohio, commenting on the Sherrill survey committee's recommendations for saving in the conservation division, speaks briefly and to the point. "It can't be done without interfering with the efficient operation of the conservation division."

That is the usual reply. In all likelihood, it probably is an honest and an intelligent reply in this case. Up to this time, however, no one has discovered any department of the government which admits it can get along on less money than it is getting. Certainly no one with an ax to grind ever voluntarily quits grinding it.

Invariably, economy would entail destruction of efficiency. Destruction of efficiency would work an injustice to the public, or to that part of the public which is particularly interested in the performance of the function which someone believes is costing too much.

That explains why the cost of government increases steadily. Government increases its efficiency as automatically as a snowball increases its diameter when it is rolling down hill. In each case, the process is one of accumulating additional material. The snowball accumulates snow, and bureaucracy accumulates things to do.

Consequently, it is impossible to decrease either the size or cost of bureaucracy without doing irreparable injury to efficiency, even though efficiency may amount to nothing more important to public welfare than finding new ways to spend money. In short, as long as jobholders are the judges of what constitutes efficiency in public service, any attempt to cut down expenses is bound to meet the same kind of resistance.

Those long-distance planners might give some thought to the time when there will be superannuated veterans of the CCC—Indianapolis News.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—That harum-scarum block of West 49th street between 6th and 7th avenues offers an array of cafes as varied and colorful as those along the Marcellus and Harve water fronts. Most are low priced, garishly decorated and have waiters with pompadours.

Mrs. Lee's Chili Villa, discovered by Joe Cook and Will Rogers and featuring a visitor's book that reads like a "Who's Who" of the stage, screen and literature, is there. A tiny blaze of conspicuous red to symbolize its peppery fare. Mrs. Lee's languishes until dawn, then overflows.

There are also chowder counters and oyster bars, where the service is hippity-hop but comradely. Chowder is a White Way panacea for the hang-over. Steak houses stress double chops, the T-Bone, planked sirloin and hefty Idaho spuds. Too, chop sueys, one three-tabled with a single Chink doing everything.

In the medley is a cutely red-awned touch called "Youth House—Dine and Dance." And there are idyllic and intimately boozed bazaars called "See Me Again" and "Dream O'Love." Also gypsy tea rooms, doughnut nooks, hamburger hutches and Spanish kitchens.

Yells of newboys in large cities have a curious fascination. Each strikes a different leather-junged tempo. For a number of years I've often passed a Childs on a Broadway corner just to hear the yoyos of the hawker lut front. He sells 'em like hot cakes with his strange mumbo-jumbo. Forlornly sad-eyed, he lets go a sort of Alpine yodel now and then that sounds like "Aye-laitce—ee-e!" and then after a 30 second interval and as though an afterthought there's a throaty bull-frog croak: "Bung-geel!"

In Cincinnati there is—at least was on my last visit—a globe-trotting newsboy as much a fixture as Fountain Square, opposite which he has stood from boyhood into gray-haired middle years. He is Jimmy Widdmyer, the first of the Hully Gee Guys I ever saw. Jimmy knew the big-shots, the flashy gamblers of the Walnut street bars and the Latonia touts. Nick Longworth always stopped for a moment when he came to town. To receive Jimmy's salute was some thing of a distinction.

It was inevitable those terrible twins of travesty, Ben Hecht and Charles V. MacArthur, who have burlesqued so many others, would eventually be put on the spot themselves. They were and handsomely in the season's theatrical surprise packet called "Boj Meets Girl," an insanity that gives Sam and Bella Spewack, after several bad starts, a big lead in the risqué farce stakes. No show of the year excited so much continuous laughter. Even the dour visaged, of Percy Hammond and Gilbert Gabriel burst into rosy smiles and Robert C. Benchley, the loudest laughing critic, had to be led out.

Grape vine rumors persist that E. Berry Wall is coming home for good after the holidays. Returning with his mountainous bow tie, dove gray vests and chow dog. Once he was New York's greatest dandy, but when he went to Paris refused to change the dress style of his arrival. Thus he has for years presented a Gay 90 figure along the boulevards. Rich, a bon vivant, he fitted into the social life and he and his wife became leaders of the American colony that is no more.

For the first time in 14 years there will be no afternoon Christmas party at the Roy Howards. All the Howards are in the Orient. The yearly round-up massed a group of celebrities that often overflowed to the pantries. It was at one of these gatherings that Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey found themselves suddenly shouldered together with tea-cups in their hands, the big sissies, the first meeting since their last set-to.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, December 19

A day of great activity and initiative is presaged by the predominant lunar and mutual configurations. New propositions and undertakings may be keyed to high pressure, with the prospect of good fortune coming through those in important places. The latter will be ready to indorse projects of merit.

Those whose birthday it is may be successful in launching new projects of importance, with the assistance of those in position and high standing. These may be confidently approached, and also secret societies, mergers, rings or close corporations.

A child born on this day may be talented in unusual ways, probably with the pen or in investigation of nature's higher forces. It will be particularly engaging and popular.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

CONTRADICTIONARY news from Ethiopia. Haile Selassie's generals say they have two, four or six hundred thousand warriors about to wipe out the Italians; then comes news of another city captured by Italians or another Ethiopian town "bombed, wrecked and in flames."

Fifteen tri-motored bombers flew 250 miles through Ethiopian territory and back, "dropped their bombs with deadly effect, returned to their base, with no damage except one propeller blade knocked by a bullet." The futility of fighting airplanes from the ground seems demonstrated.

ITALY'S Gen. Graziani tells Universal Service:

"We are trying to stir the enemy to fight by keeping after them. Perhaps finally they will come into the open."

Haile Selassie's men, as courageous as any, having learned that mer, with spears and old-fashioned rifles cannot face machine guns and that there is no adequate reply to attack from the air, may have decided to wait and let the rainy season work for them later.

HAILE SELASSIE again says that he is positively going to the front to fight the Italians in person, rather than agree to give Italy 125,000 square miles of Ethiopia outright and put 130,000 square miles more under Italian control. He says the League's proposal to do that has "shaken his confidence."

Haile Selassie's difficulty is to find the war front. This war is not like the big war, with armies staying in their trenches, laying down barrages over each other's heads.

AS the world was sleeping, Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford was taken from her cell at Woodstock, Ontario, Canada, for a short walk of a few steps to a gallows-tree arranged in the prison yard, and hanged. She was 50 years old, mother of nine children, formerly a church worker and Salvation Army "lassie," but all that could not offset the jury's decision that she poisoned her husband that she might marry another man.

IN OUR civilization a woman occasionally poisons a man and Justice hangs the woman. Formerly she would have been tortured to extract confession and ultimately burned or cut into four pieces, after being broken on the wheel, so there is improvement. The hanging will not do much good, and it seems to come a little too close to Christmas.

AN ENGLISH professional beauty, Rosemary Andree, convinced that her figure is the world's most beautiful, is challenged by an American girl named Mardee Hoff.

Miss Hoff's friends say her figure is better than any seen since the Venus Accroupie was cut out of marble. Mardee Hoff's figure might interest you: age, 21; titian hair; bust, 34; hips, 36; waist 24; thigh, 19½; angle, 8.

Nothing is said about what is back of the forehead, or the size of the head, but both are probably satisfactory. Science says "intelligence goes with beauty," and that is probably true, except when intelligence is spoiled by flattery.

THE REPUBLICAN party decides to hold its 1936 convention in Cleveland, casting 54 votes for Cleveland, 39 for Chicago and 6 for Kansas City. Each city had offered $150,000 as its contribution to convention expenses. The delegates then will see a beautiful city on a beautiful lake and find themselves in a congenial Ohio atmosphere that has produced presidents.

What Secrets Will New 200-Inch Eye Reveal?

View of 200-inch "eye"

Machine for polishing disk

Site of new observatory on Mt. Palomar

What secrets of the universe will be revealed to man when the new 200-inch telescope swings its huge "eye" in sweeping arcs across the heavens? This is the question which has challenged the imagination of scientists the world over since the giant mirror-disk was taken from its oven at the Corning, N. Y., glass works and found to be technically perfect. This "cyclopean eye" will enable astronomers to penetrate the universe to a distance of 1,200,000,000 light years. Its strength is a million times that of the human eye. It will bring the moon to within 25 miles of the earth and should reveal whether there is life on Mars. The Einstein theory of relativity, the question of whether the universe is "expanding" and other mysteries now beyond the realm of man's knowledge may be answered when the giant new telescope swings into position at the new observatory being built on Mt. Palomar, near San Diego, Cal. Before that, however, nearly two years will be required to polish the mirror-disk to the required accuracy for observations.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

IT IS astonishing to learn that more than nine thousand children in New York City's public elementary schools suffer from some form of heart disease. Rheumatic fever is the most common cause. Often the heart is impaired as a result of some infectious disease, such as pneumonia, scarlet fever.

Careful investigation into this problem by the New York Heart association revealed that in many cases heart damage could be prevented if adequate steps were taken early in the course of the disease. Where the heart involvement could not be prevented, serious complications and advancement of the heart lesion could be checked.

Prevention Is Aim

I cannot speak too highly of the constructive work and success of the New York Heart association. This worthy organization not only is rendering aid to many young sufferers of heart disease, but is making every effort to prevent heart conditions in children and adults.

Children who are deprived of adequate hours of rest, relaxation, fresh air and sunlight often succumb to some infection, and heart disturbance may follow. Sometimes the heart condition can be traced to repeated attacks of grippes and tonsillitis. In some parts of the world, as in England where tonsillitis and rheumatism are more frequent, heart disease is quite commonly encountered.

All children afflicted with acute rheumatic fever require prolonged medical attention. Every effort should be made to prevent involvement of the heart. Recovery is slow and in many instances infection of the valve of the heart can only be avoided by prolonged rest in bed.

Avoid Fatigue

Exposure to dampness, excessive fatigue and undernourishment must be avoided. Wherever possible the child with rheumatic heart should be taken to a warm and dry climate where he will be assured of an abundance of fresh air and sunlight. The diet should be simple and nutritious, containing plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals, milk, cream, butter and eggs.

Many parents become unduly alarmed when told their child has a "heart murmur." Bear in mind that there are various kinds of murmurs. Some are especially common in growing children and are spoken of as "functional" murmurs. This type need not cause any great anxiety and will disappear within a short time.

"Organic" Murmur

When the murmur is caused by some definite change in the structure of the valve of the heart, it is called an "organic" murmur. This type is permanent and does not disappear. It interferes with the passage of blood from one chamber of the heart to another. It is frequently spoken of as "leaking valve."

Children with heart defects must not be considered or treated as invalids. With proper care each can live a normal and comfortable existence. A child may be permitted moderate exercise and be allowed to indulge in certain sports. Restrictions in physical activities should be determined by the physician who is familiar with the limitations of the child.

Answers to Health Queries

S. B. Q.—Are olive oil and vaseline helpful in the care of the hair? If so, how often should they be applied?

A—Olive oil and vaseline may prove helpful. They should be applied to the scalp before shampooing or once or twice during the week, depending upon the condition of the scalp and hair.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send addressed stamped envelopes with their questions. All inquiries should be addressed to him in care of this newspaper.

Miss Carpenter's room: Florence Dodson, Marjorie Hepburn, Betty Moore, Ralph Moore, Mildred Trotter.

Mr. Ward's room: Helen Prizant, Vivian Hum, Twila Keller, Edith Newell received "A" in every subject.

The three Junior High rooms are planning Christmas programs for Friday afternoon. Gift exchanges will be held.

Girl Reserves Meet

The Girl Reserves of Columbian High school held a "World Peace" party Thursday evening in the school auditorium, talks being given by various members on the different countries, followed by a general discussion. Plans were made for a "kid party" at a later date.

Dorothy Chaddock was entertainment chairman and Marjorie McGale was chairman of the refreshment committee.

Jolly 25 Club

Mrs. George Hoover was hostess to members of the Jolly 25 at the annual Christmas party at her home, County Line rd., 18 members responding to roll call with Christmas thoughts. The "Ageless Christmas Story" was read by Mrs. Ralph Lower. Miss Eileen Riddle received the quilt which the club had made.

Mrs. H. L. Wise, president, appointed a committee to nominate officers. An informal social time and gift exchange was followed by lunch. Mrs. Ralph Lower has invited the club to her home for a New Year's dinner and quilting on Friday, Jan. 15.

Hold Yule Party

The annual Christmas party of the Past Noble Grand club of Pandora Rebekah lodge was held Friday evening in I. O. O. F. hall, beginning with a chicken dinner at 6:30. The hostesses were Mesdames B. L. Brinker, George Wenderoth, W. R. Phillips, William Schlag, Edward Myers, Kermit Crouse, George Ferguson and Miss Bertha Shontz.

Entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Harry Wagner and Mrs. L. E. Haggerty. Officers were elected for 1936, as follows:

President, Mrs. William Schlag; vice president, Mrs. George Wenderoth; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Byron Snyder.

Red Cross Gains

Mesdames F. J. McGahan and Thomas Evans, in charge of the local Red Cross membership drive sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, report that receipts this year exceeded last year. They report that last year $177.97 was spent in Columbian for relief by this organization.

Members of Choir

Misses LaRue Miller and Margaret Yarian are members of the Capital university chapel choir and orchestra which broadcast each week during the Christmas season over station WBNS, Columbus, at 9 a. m. Friday. Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Miller, and Miss Yarian is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Yarian.

Entertains Club

The Bridgette club was entertained in the home of Miss Ruth Henry, Fairfield ave., with three tables of bridge. Mrs. Charles Fisher held high score. Mrs. James Wiant and Mrs. Fisher were club guests. A gift exchange and lunch were features. Miss Charlotte Stratton will be the next club hostess, Jan. 7.

Columbian stores have announced their Christmas schedule. Beginning Wednesday, the stores will remain open until 9 p. m. to accommodate Christmas shoppers.

New Library Books

The Columbian library board announces the placing on the shelves of a number of new books. The Mothers' club added to its previous gift 10 new children's books. The board also purchased new books, including general reference, nature study, travel, 20 volumes of young people's fiction, 10 volumes of Edgar Wallace mystery stories, and 10 of adult fiction.

Following the regular meeting of Pandora Rebekah lodge Monday evening, the annual Christmas party was enjoyed.

To Honor Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bilger will entertain Dec. 18, honoring the 56th wedding anniversary of her parents.

Gunman's Widow Escapes Prison

Helen Gillis

Mrs. Helen Gillis, 22, widow of "Baby Face" Nelson, notorious gangster slain by G-men in Chicago, escaped a prison sentence when she was placed on probation for a year after being convicted in San Francisco court on charges of harboring a federal fugitive, her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus H. Crook, of near Lisbon.

Ray C. Miller, Ray W. Fisher and Dr. C. W. Dewalt spent several days last week on a hunting trip in Pennsylvania.

The Columbian Parent-Teacher association meeting has been postponed until Jan. 23.

The annual party of the Tyme club was held Thursday evening in the club rooms, a venison dinner being served. The meat was furnished by G. R. Hoover, who recently shot a deer in Pennsylvania.

George Seederly presided as toastmaster and George Hart welcomed the guests and honorary members. There were 46 present.

Ray Lawrence, a member of the Youngstown police force for 19 years, and a narcotic expert, spoke on the evils of the narcotic habit. Rev. Girard of the Hubbard Presbyterian church gave a talk on "Clean Living." Bridge and "500" were enjoyed following the program.

New officers were elected, as follows: President, George Hart; vice president, John Benninghoff; secretary, Herbert Souder; treasurer, Oren Wagner. The club members, under the chairmanship of Verne Wining, are busy collecting, repairing and painting old toys and purchasing new ones for distribution soon to underprivileged children of the community.

Change Meeting Date

The monthly meeting of the Mary-Martha class of the Lutheran Sunday school will be held Friday, Dec. 20, instead of the 27th, in the social room of the church. The annual election of officers and a gift exchange will be program features.

To Entertain Group

The Ladies' guild of the Methodist church will entertain members of the Ladies' Aid society at a covered dinner and Christmas party Thursday noon in the church dining room. All ladies of the church are invited to attend.

The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet at this afternoon at the church. The second chapter of the study book, "Women Under the Southern Cross", will be reviewed by Mrs. C. P. Esterly. A social hour will follow the program.

Merchants Play

The Columbian Merchants will play their second basketball game of the season Wednesday evening in the High school gymnasium, meeting the fast Hanna Oils of Lisbon.

Dances, Other Events Planned For Salem's Holiday Season

With college students arriving home the last of the week arrangements are being made for holiday festivities for young and old, the schedule to include teas, dances, dinners and other gala events.

The St. Agnes guild has planned a keno party for Friday night at the Elks home on East State st. Mrs. Fred Campbell heading the committee in charge. The party will open at 8 p. m. and tickets may be procured from members of the committee sponsoring the entertainment.

Assisting Mrs. Campbell are Mrs. James Wilson, Miss Nance Peace, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Miss Mary Bowman, Mrs. Lowell King, Mrs. H. E. Haynes, and Mrs. Walter Denning. Prizes have been donated by Salem merchants.

In Youngstown at the Hotel Ohio ballroom, decorations are going up for the "Foul Ball" Christmas dance next Saturday evening. The setting will feature a Chinese motif and festivities will be staged cabaret style with music from 9:21 to 2:21 by Dick Fidler's orchestra.

In charge of this year's affair, which will be the annual milk fund benefit for the Visiting Nurses association are Joseph G. Butler III, William J. Gutknecht, Jr., Bentley Thomas, Stuart Leedy, James Thompson and George J. Renner IV. A number of Salem people will attend the dance.

Of interest also is the annual Calumet club dance for which invitations have been issued. The dance will be held Dec. 27 at the Elks home. Tickets will be available after today.

Jack Miles and his orchestra will play for dancing from 10 to 2. The band has been featured in Cleveland and Pittsburgh and is popular with the younger set. It has played for many college and fraternity dances in this vicinity.

Plans are being made for the annual New Year's afternoon tea dance, originally sponsored by the Calumet club. The event will be sponsored this year by the younger set.

On New Year's Eve there will be the annual Elks dance at the home for Elks and their friends. Roy Kerr, head of the committee in charge of the dance which will open at 10 p. m. Music for dancing will be provided by Archie Neff and his Nighthawks from Canton.

Church Planning Coverdish Event

A coverdish dinner at 6:30 last night at the Methodist church opened the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Queen Esther society. Members of the Women's Home Missionary society and the Carrie Barge circle were guests.

After the dinner a program was presented by members of the Queen Esther society. The story of Queen Esther was dramatized in a sketch written by Miss Laura Schilling. Members who took part in the dramatization were Misses Ethel Shears, Geraldine Floding, Nellie Naragon and Esther Stewart. Miss Stewart also gave an account of the 50 years work of the Queen Esther society. Miss Schilling had a paper on "Queen Vashiti" and Mrs. Russell Gibbs led the devotionals.

The meeting closed with a Golden Jubilee offering for the society.

50 Attend B. P. O. E. Auxiliary Party

About 50 members of the Ladies auxiliary of the B. P. O. Elks enjoyed the annual Christmas party last night at the home, a coverdish dinner at 6:30 opening the event. Tables were decorated with miniature Christmas trees and lighted with red candles. A large decorated tree in the center of the room continued the seasonal appointments.

A short business meeting was held at which time a class of candidates was initiated and plans were made for a bingo party in January.

A gift exchange and cards were features of the social hour. Mrs. Stephen Odoran and Mrs. Frank Kesselmeier were awarded the bridge and "500" prizes.

The next meeting will be in January.

Young Ladies Class Is Entertained

A 6 o'clock dinner opened the Christmas party last night for members of the Young Ladies Bible class of the Baptist church at the home of Mrs. Catherine Patterson on North Lincoln at Seasonal appointments made the table attractive.

All members were dressed as "kids" and the program was planned as "the last day of school." Recitations and songs and a Christmas gift exchange were enjoyed.

The group elected officers for the year, naming Mrs. Harvey Lottman, president. Other officers are: Vice president, Mrs. Earl May; secretary, Mrs. John Hanna; treasurer, Miss Martha Park; member-at-large, Mrs. Albert Zim-merman; social, Mrs. William Park.

Busy Bee Class Has Party

Busy Bee class of the First Friends church enjoyed a Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Miss Wanda Votaw on West State st. Gifts were exchanged and lunch was served by the hostess.

The class will meet in January at the home of Miss Katherine Rich.

D. of A. Convenes

A Christmas box and a lunch were features of the social meeting last night of Plymouth council, Daughters of America, at the Macabee hall.

The next meeting will be held on Jan. 14, instead of the regular date, which falls on New Year's day.

Marriage License

Charles Knight and Eleanor J. Young, both of East Palestine, have been granted a marriage license at Lisbon.

Church Unit Hears Missionary

Miss Eva Smalley, missionary in China, who is visiting her niece, Mrs. Hiram B. Greiner of South Lincoln ave., was a speaker last evening at the meeting of the Anne B. Gilbert auxiliary of the Presbyterian church at the home of Mrs. Charles Cozad on Park ave. Miss Smalley described her work in China, conditions there and the life and customs of the people.

Devotions were led by Miss Ora Vincent. Mrs. Ralph Crawford had a paper on "Persia and Syria", which was followed by special music, including Christmas carols, sung by Phyllis Cozad and Bobby Ellyson, accompanied by Mrs. Homer Ellyson.

A Christmas play, "Those Christmas Gifts" was presented, in charge of Miss Tamar Thumm. A social hour followed with a gift exchange. Gifts were distributed by "Santa Claus", Phyllis Cozad, assisted by Bobby Ellyson. Associate hostesses last night were Miss Katharine Hole and Mrs. Harry Snyder.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 17 at the home of Mrs. Elbert Vincent on East Third st.

Mary Carr Curtis Society Meets

Officers of the Standard Bearers society were guests of the Mary Carr Curtis society of the Methodist church at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Bettie Lee Kenneweg on East Fourth st.

Mrs. L. W. Matthews told the story of "The Last Word" by Van Dyke and Mrs. Holland Cameron related a number of the legends which have grown up around the birth of Christ. Mrs. R. W. Broomall reviewed an article about a tribe of witch doctors in Dutch Guiana, South America. Group singing of Christmas carols closed the program.

Each member of the Mary Carr Curtis group was presented a little bouquet of Brazilian pepper-berries by Mrs. Mary Carr Curtis of Damascus, formerly a missionary for the church. On display during the meeting were several lovely Madonna pictures by famous masters.

The hostess and her associate hostess, Mrs. Vernon Broomall, served a lunch after the meeting.

Musical Arts Club Has Dinner Party

A dinner-party was this year's Christmas entertainment for the members of the Musical Arts club, the dinner being held last night at the Willard house in Home-wood. After the dinner a social evening was enjoyed with music and games. Twenty members of the club were present.

True Blue Class

Members of the True Blue class of the Presbyterian church will have the Christmas party tonight at the home of Mrs. W. H. Stine on North Ellsworth ave.

Mrs. Flora Baker is confined to her home on North Ellsworth ave., suffering from a fractured shoulder sustained in a fall on a slippery pavement Sunday evening.

Doom G-Man Killer

George W. Barrett

George W. Barrett, above, Kentucky feudist awaiting execution in Marion county jail at Indianapolis, Ind., is the first to receive the death penalty under a new federal law aimed to stop interstate crime. He was convicted of killing Nelson Klein, government operative at West College Corner, Ind., when the latter attempted to arrest him for killing his mother and sister.

rejoice that you're not all tuckered out.

For a swell ten-minute dessert, try marshmallows. Peel and split bananas lengthwise (allowing one banana for each person). Dip in lemon juice. Place flat side up in baking pan and sprinkle lightly with salt. Cut marshmallows in halves, using two whole or four halves for each banana half. Place on the split bananas and bake in moderately hot oven for about 10 minutes, or until marshmallows are brown.

Quick Salad

For an eight-minute salad for six, place a leaf of lettuce on each of six salad plates. Lay a slice of canned pineapple on each one. Cover with alternating rounds of canned grapefruit and peeled orange. Thrust a forkful of cream cheese into each of six pitted dates, lay a date in the center of each pineapple ring. With a teaspoon, drop little mounds of mayonnaise on three or four fruit segments.

For a quick main course for lunch or supper, try cheese-tomato parched rice. Melt two tablespoons butter in an iron frying pan, add three cups cooked rice. Cook until rice is slightly brown, stirring lightly with a fork. Put into hot serving dish, pour over one cup tomato sauce, and sprinkle with half cup grated cheese, lifting rice with a fork, so that sauce and cheese coat each kernel.

ROAD PROJECT IS SUBMITTED

Commissioners Seeking Federal Funds For Five Mile Repair

LISBON, Dec. 18.—Following a meeting of trustees of Madison township and county commissioners, F. W. Chambers, county WPA manager, has submitted a detailed project with the Canton district office urging the surfacing of the West Point-Gavers road in Madison and Wayne townships for a distance of five and one-half miles.

Need Federal Grant

This project has been estimated to cost $8,716 in federal funds and $11,151 sponsor funds. When new WPA projects were submitted early last fall, this road was included in a blanket county township road project, but Madison township trustees had not asked for the immediate approval of the project. At that time, county commissioners urged the improvement of the highway under the federal road program, but approval has not been received.

Improvement of this road would begin at West Point, at the intersection of state route 45 and continue westward to connect with State route 164 at Gavers.

Mines Along Route

Twelve coal mines, including two striping properties, are being operated on this road, giving employment to 144 miners and other labor. An additional 50 to 75 miners and workers would be employed, operators have informed the commissioners, if and when the highway is improved. A hard surfaced road would permit a larger sale to truckers, many of which now truck coal from this district to Warren, Ravenna and Cleveland. Recently two steam shovels were delivered here from Guernsey county and are now in use at the Russell operation where nine men are employed.

At the Foster mine five men are employed and at the Loudon mine, two. The Beaver Coal Co., employs five men at present and will increase this force as soon as roads are improved. The Rudy mine employs 19 and the Kelman mine 24 men. Ten men are employed at the Parsons mine; two at the Fisk and 16 at the Hart mine. George McKinzie of Lisbon employs 20 men and Andrews Maucha of West Point employs 24 men. At the Smithberger mine, eight miners are at work.

Edmund Gwenn and Reginald Owen from a scene in "The Bishop Misbehaves" showing at the State Thursday only.

"The Bishop Misbehaves," which introduces the British stage star, Edmund Gwenn, in the title role, will be shown at the State Thursday only. This quaint English mystery was written by Frederick Jackson and served as a starring vehicle for Walter Connolly on the New York stage. Edmund Gwenn, who plays the bishop, just completed a two-year run in "Laburnum Grove" on the London stage.

Miss O'Sullivan Has Lead

Maureen O'Sullivan has the feminine lead opposite the bishop, who has a love for amateur sleuthing, Norman Foster portrays an innocent bystander who gets caught in the web of both mystery and romance. Others in the cast are Lucile Watson, another stage recruit, Reginald Owen and Dudley Digges, the latter with a comedy role.

The story deals with a young English girl who sets out to gain revenge from the man who has stolen her ailing father's money. Failing to obtain justice in the courts she resorts to robbery herself and in this Norman Foster aids her. Into this predicament walks the kindly Bishop of Broadminster, who is full of crime theories gained by a lifetime of reading detective fiction. He interests himself in the case and, finally, accidentally stumbles upon the solution.

Lucile Watson, stage actress, whose debut in the movies was made in Helen Hayes' "What Every Woman Knows" portrays the bishop's sister. Maureen O'Sullivan is the daughter of the robbed man. Norman Foster her partner in revenge and Reginald Owen plays the black-souled embezzler.

Todd about 4 p. m. Sunday. Stanley Lupino, English comedian, and his wife, hosts at the party which Miss Todd left to go to her death.

Police held strongly to the theory of accidental death from carbon monoxide fumes as she sat in the car, but did not discount the possibility of murder or suicide.

A preliminary report by Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, disclosed the actress' blood had 75 per cent saturation by carbon monoxide, and her brain, 13 per cent saturation by alcohol.

No Organic Trouble

He said her heart had no organic condition which might have caused death.

Dressed in a scintillating gown of sequins and a mink wrap, Miss Todd was found slumped in the front seat of her expensive motor car Monday morning. A small fortune in diamonds, her gloves and purse were undisturbed.

Blood had trickled from nose. Her lips were bruised and a dental filling was dislodged in her mouth. The ignition key was turned on, the car battery run down, and the motor silent.

Police Capt. Bert Wallis said it was his opinion "that Miss Todd and West had a luff Saturday night when she left for the Lupino party. I believe he told her to be home at 2 o'clock or he would lock her out," Wallis said.

He added that a "major question" was Miss Todd's reason for going to the garage.

West, officers said, explained he lay awake until 4 a. m., finally going to sleep after he heard water running in the ladies' lounge of the cafe, which he took to mean that Miss Todd was retiring there.

Detroit Tigers Top List of Outstanding Teams During 1935

Minnesota's Unbeaten Football Team Is Runner-Up To Tigers In Fifth Annual Associated Press Poll of Leading Teams

By ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The No. 1 team achievement of the year in sport was turned in by the Detroit Tigers, World champions of baseball, in the estimation of the country's sports experts.

Against competition in the voting offered principally by three unbeaten college football teams, the Tigers registered as decisive a triumph in the fifth annual Associated Press sports poll as they did in capturing the American pennant for the second time.

The Tigers topped the team poll with 209 points. Minnesota's unbeaten football team was runner-up in the poll for the second straight year. The Gophers posted a clear margin over rivals for national honors.

Minnesota's point total was 162. The Southern Methodist, the "southern" choice, finished third with 144 points. Princeton football leader in the east, was next with 41.

Points were tabulated on a 3-2-1 basis by sports editors in the country of preference.

Fourth Year For Baseball

The popularity of the Tigers marked the fourth straight year in which the World baseball champions have been voted the top team of the year. Southern California's football team won recognition in the first Associated Press round since then the New York Yankees, New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals, and Tigers have finished first honors.

Sports experts generally figure the major league baseball season ending from April to October, involves a most severe test of team prowess than in any other sport. The Tigers, off slowly in the season race, came on steadily to overcome all opposition. They rallied from a bad start in the World series as well as the loss of their ace, Hank Greenberg, to beat the Chicago Cubs in six games and give Detroit its first World championship.

Mention Notre Dame

Notre Dame's gridiron outfit, several experts suggested, turned in the greatest single team performance for one afternoon when it came from behind in the last period to beat Ohio State.

The tabulation of the poll on outstanding teams of 1935, showing totals, follows:

Detroit Tigers, baseball... 209
Minnesota, college football... 162
S. Meth., college football... 144
Princeton, college football... 41
Chicago Cubs, baseball... 65
Brit. Davis cup, tennis... 11
Notre Dame, col. football... 10
S. Meth., track and field... 8
Detroit Lions, prof. football... 7
U. of California, rowing... 6
U. S. Ryder cup, golf... 5

Three points each for the following:
U. S. Wightman Cup team.
Professional tennis: Montreal Maroons.
Professional hockey: Oklahoma A.
M. college, wrestling; Edmonton
Inds. girls' basketball; New York
Inds. prof. football; Alabama, Rose val football champions.

One point each for the following:
University of Michigan, swimming;
Personville, (Ind.) High school basketball; Kansas City State L.
basketball; Japanese professional football; United States amateur wrestling team which invaded Japan; British amateur boxing team, which beat New York Gold-Glovers.

PHILADELPHIA—Rain or shine, all alike to the "Snowbirds," some of the Llanarch Country Club members.

Not even snow has interfered with all-time club record established by this prominent quartet including Dr. Edward Quinn Thornton, Joseph M. Endres, Harvey D. Baer, a manufacturer, and Lemuel Baer, a manufacturer.

The four began playing 18 holes or five days a week in 1915 and have never missed a day in 20 years. Their average 65. They have played the course 1,700 times and aggregated 1,700,000 strokes.

CHRISTIAN AND BAPTIST TEAMS WIN LOOP TILTS

Late Rally by Trojans Falls Short As They Lose

Beginning the first round of play in the Class B league, the Baptists defeated the Columbians and the Christians registered a victory over the Trojans in games at the Memorial building last night.

Scoring freely in every period the Baptists easily downed the Columbians, defending champions of the loop, 3-21. Bennett and Stratton turned in the outstanding performances for the Baptist quintet while Hipple starred for the Columbians cagers.

Trojans Rally

A fourth quarter rally by the Trojans failed to produce enough points and they dropped the verdict in their contest with the Christians, 25-22.

In the Class A loop games tonight at the Memorial building, the Columbians will engage the Trades Class and the Winona cagers will meet the Oldtimers quintet.

Large Olympic Squad

BERLIN.—The Swiss Olympic committee at its recent session in Zurich decided on the extent of participation in the Fourth Olympic Winter Games at Garmisch-Partenkirchen with no fewer than 250 players, a record figure for a country with four million inhabitants.

This team will be composed as follows: ten or twelve ski-runners, 14 ice-hockey players, 12 bob-sleighters, a military patrol and probably some skaters besides.

Althouse and Reserves Win

Cage Teams Triumph Over Lisbon Quintets At High School

Playing their first game of the current season, Joe Kelley's Althouse Motors cagers had things all their own way at the High school gymnasium last night as they triumphed over the Lisbon Hanna Arrows, 56 to 29, in a preliminary contest to the Salem-Lisbon fray.

In another curtain raiser for the varsity game, the Quaker reserves chalked up a 23-17 win over the Lisbon reserves. It was the second victory of the season for the Quaker second stringers.

Althouses Take Lead

Taking the lead in the opening period, the Althouses cagers remained on top of the scoring all during the contest. They led the end of the first half 20 to 15 and in the final two periods of the game collected 26 points while they held Lisbon to 14.

The Quaker reserves had trouble with the county seat second quintet during the first half of their game but in the third and fourth frames found the basket to connect for 15 points and outdistance their county rivals.

Pukalski And Shears Combine to Score 24 Points For Quakers

Tigers of Wellsville To Tangle With Red and Black Cagers In Another County Contest Here Tomorrow Night

With the two lone veterans Eddie Pukalski and Kenneth Shears carrying the burden of both offensive and defensive tactics, the Salem High school Quaker court quintet chalked up its second victory of the season at the high school gymnasium last night by trampling Lisbon beneath a 28 to 17 score.

In preliminary contests to the Columbiana county tussle between Salem and Lisbon, Joe Kelley's Althouse Motors cagers gained an easy 56-29 win over the Lisbon Hanna Oils and the Quaker reserves rallied in the second half of their game with the county seat reserve team to win 23-17.

Combined Pukalski and Shears accounted for 24 of the Quaker's total 28 points. Pukalski marked up most of his 12 points on long range shots while Shears showed equal ability on long and short tosses to register his 10 points.

Although their play was most brilliant on offense, the Quakers defense would no doubt have collapsed had it been minus the service of Pukalski and Shears. The performance of these two cagers in the defensive department of the game was largely responsible for the Quakers having possession of the ball more times than it rested in the hands of the county seat lads.

Paying Improved

As a whole the playing of the Quakers was improved over that of their initial game of the season with Boardman last Friday. A portion of the improvement may be attributed to the fact that they were playing on their home floor and the "greenness" apparent in the first game, was somewhat relieved.

The county seat team tallied first in the contest when Brooks dropped in the free throw given him on Pukalski's foul. Shortly after this opening tally, Raynes, who started at the center berth for the Quakers in place of Max Lutsch, sent the Red and Black into the lead by tossing two foul shots through the hoop.

The Quakers again scored when Shears found the basket on a close range heave after Vanaman had contributed two points to the Lisbon score by the foul route.

Slow Down

The early scoring spree of both teams slowed down midway in the first quarter and was opened again near the close of the period when Raynes and Shears tallied for the Quakers and Brooks and Prasco chalked up scores for the county seat cagers.

Going into the second quarter with a 9-7 edge, the Quakers battled on even terms with the Lisbon lads in this frame and were unable to increase their two point lead when the period closed with the score standing 15-13.

Pukalski tallied twice on long shots for the Quakers in the second quarter while Shears and Shaffer both accounted for scores on free throws. Max Lutsch was sent into the contest in this period but the Quaker center declined to take any shots at the basket during his stay in the game. Rather than attempt to shoot from his pivot position, Lutsch would toss the ball to one of his teammates in mid-floor.

Limiting Lisbon to one point in the third quarter, the Quakers went ahead to add nine points to their first half total of 15 when Pukalski and Shears connected twice on field goals and the latter also dropped a free throw through the hoop.

Pukalski scored all of the Quakers points in the final frame while Korn and Vanaman accounted for Lisbon's tallies.

The Quakers will wind up their basketball activity with the Christmas holidays when they meet the Wellsville High Tigers in another Columbiana county court battle at the high school gymnasium tomorrow night.

Play Chaney Jan. 3

The Red and Black cagers will not return to the hardwoods after the Wellsville game until Jan. 3.

CHAPTER XVI

Carl Masker could never quite believe his good fortune. He had been a bookkeeper for Shmalhausen and Katz, wholesale grocers, when he met Agnes Riley at a meeting of the Poetry Society. Carl, in his leisure, wrote poetry after the manner of Longfellow and James Whitcomb Riley. His rhymes were simple and his sentiments homely, but poetry filled his aesthetic needs and he found infinite solace in putting forth his romantic yearning in verse. He was honest and ambitious. By night he was an accounting student in his last year at New York University. He supported his widowed mother and little brother. He was earnest, plodding and religious.

He knew few people. George Coleman, practically his only friend, he had met at New York University. They had in common their accounting, their ambition, and a love of poetry. He had gone with George to the meeting of the Poetry Society where they had started a conversation with Agnes Riley and Bertha Crandall, her friend. George, who worked in the statistical department of a big store, took Bertha home and Carl asked if he could escort Agnes.

Agnes was the plainest of the Riley sisters. She was second from the eldest, and thirty-three when she met Carl and was a poorer and imperfect edition of the Rileys. She was shorter than all of them, inclined to be heavy below the hips and fat at the breast. Her skin was good but she hadn't the rich creamy coloring of the others. She had the flat high Riley cheekbones and the wide-set eyes and dark coloring—a most effective combination—while Agnes had dark eyes and swarthy coloring. She was always beautifully groomed and had a low, carefully modulated voice.

"What a beautiful night," Agnes sighed. "Anything might happen on a night like this."

"On such a night stood Dido With a willow in her hand Upon the wild sea banks and wait her love To come again to Carthage" quoted Carl, who remembered his Shakespeare from high school.

"On such a night did young Lorenzo swear he loved her well, Stealing her soul with many vows of faith and ne'er a true one"

Agnes quoted in turn. They squeezed each other's arm in intellectual ecstasy.

But when Agnes led him to the imposing apartment on Park Avenue, Carl Masker became tongue-tied with awe and respect. He hadn't realized until now that he was actually escorting Agnes Riley—one of the beauty parlor Rileys—to her home.

She invited him to call on her and then, while he hesitated because of her wealth and position, she encouragingly called him up. He liked her. She filled him with new and definite ambitions. She held in her hand the key to infinite possibilities.

Two months later they were married.

He was an excellent bookkeeper with a superlative amount of that quality attributed to genius—the ability to take infinite pains, which is in truth the quality that makes good bookkeepers. He was into the bargain a likeable, quiet, conscientious young Hungarian. Even the Riley sisters begrudgingly admitted his good points.

But to keep buoyant—to keep youthful—was a harder job than Agnes had supposed it to be. The strain began to show on her. It became almost more than she could bear.

Helen and Walter didn't wait until Independence Day, after all, to get married.

A few days after their discussion they met at ten o'clock at the Hall of Records Building in Brooklyn. Helen had taken Belle along as witness. She had never met Walter, and she was nervous. Walter was a few minutes late. They waited silently. When he finally dashed up, he was too excited to kiss Helen. She introduced her sister, Belle, looked so young that Walter had doubts about her acceptability as a witness. Well, it was too late now to worry about that. He steered the two girls across the little park into the marriage license bureau. Walter was nervous and ill at ease.

They were married. It all took no more than half an hour. Walter kissed Helen and then awkwardly kissed Belle. They were chilled and oppressed in the presence of this matter-of-factness.

"Let's get out of here, Mrs. Riley," Walter said jocularly, but his tone was flat. "We'll have a swell wedding breakfast. The St. Clair is near here and this afternoon I'll buy you a regular diamond wedding ring. I picked this gold band up at Fourteenth Street."

"I like it," Helen averred. "I started the car. The three sat squeezed in the front seat. 'Very, we're married, Helen. Happy, darling?'"

"Very," Helen smiled bravely. There was a lump in her throat. She had an absurd desire to weep.

Belle declaimed in a hollow voice as if she had been rehearsing it in her mind. "I congratulate you both. May you have a long and beautiful life together."

"Thank you, dearest," Helen kissed her sister.

"Thank you, little sister. As soon as I find a place to park I'll kiss you too."

In the restaurant, he excused himself as soon as they found a table. The two girls were alone for a second.

"Do you like him, Belle?" Helen asked anxiously.

"He's wonderful," Belle replied fervently.

Helen smiled happily, drew a deep breath. "I want him to be glad he married me."

"He will all right! I only hope he makes you glad!" Belle declared bluntly.

There was no time for further confidence. He was back with two enormous corsages of orchids.

"Oh, Walter, thank you. How thoughtful you are!" Helen pinned the flowers on her dress. "Now I really feel like a bride," she laughed.

It would undoubtedly have been a difficult lunch but for the orchids. They talked valiantly about flowers all through it.

"What do we do now?" Helen asked.

"I'll tell you what. First we'll go and get rooms at the hotel. We're going to have a suite. All my life I've wanted a suite at the Plaza. We'll get the best small suite in the place and then we'll go shopping. I want to get you a diamond wedding ring and maybe we'll get engaged and I'll buy you an engagement ring."

"Oh, but I really do like the gold wedding band, Walter."

"You can wear that every day. The other's for Sunday," he grinned. He pressed her arm. "Funny, I'm beginning to feel better. More like our old selves. That ceremony was pretty ghastly, wasn't it?"

She shuddered. "Am I really your wife, Walter?"

"For always and always," he said happily.

"Always and always," she echoed fervently.

"We'll have dinner at the Plaza, too. I've always wanted to eat there."

"Do I look all right for the Plaza?"

"You'll buy yourself loads of clothes. Good you thought to bring a bag or else we couldn't get into the hotel."

"Couldn't we just show them the license?"

Walter grinned. "I never thought of that. We've got a license! No more necking in the old car."

"I love that car," Helen laughed. "It's been a second home for us. I shall always have a tender regard for that car."

They were still laughing as they drove up to the Plaza; then decorously Helen followed her husband into the lobby. She pulled off her glove and held her ringed hand on her cheek so the clerk could see they were really married.

As soon as they were alone in the two rooms, childishly they opened drawers and peered into closets. It was the first time Helen had ever been in a Fifth Avenue hotel, much less upstairs in a suite. She heaved her breath at the luxury—the draperies, soft rugs, the French chairs.

Walter was exploring on his own. He turned on the water in the shower and in the basin while Helen tried out the pens on the desk. Then he wandered into the bedroom and bounced on the bed.

"Swell bed," he observed sagely. "Oh, Walter," she blushed.

He crushed her to him with a cry. "My blushing bride," he exulted. "My own sweet blushing bride."

Funeral services designed to express "public indignation and penitence" were held at Tampa, Fla., for Joseph Shoemaker who died from effects of a flogging administered by a gang who seized Shoemaker and two other labor organizers who were flogged, tarred and feathered. President William Green of the A. F. of L., has threatened to cancel the organization's 1936 convention scheduled for Tampa; Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida ordered an investigation, and Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, announced a mass protest demonstration to be held in Tampa.

Today's Pattern

A HOUSE FROCK
Pattern 2542

A pretty frock that saves a "pretty penny" is what we're all seeking in these days of limited budgets, and when one as pretty as this beckons, we waste no time in making it ours. Both trim and smart, it's designed in sizes right up to forty-six, and boasts all the firm, figure-holding lines of an afternoon frock. An elongated bodice and skirt yoke, aided by darts, seems literally to melt away those hard-to-lose pounds there at the waistline, while cape-like sleeves set up on the shoulder minimize bulk at that particular point. The collarless neckline is so flattering to the matron. Any small-spaced print, stripe or check in pre-shrunk cotton is serviceable.

Pattern 2542 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

FILLING STATION FOR SALE

This filling station is located on the Benton Road, on Route No. 14 leading to Cleveland; about one-half mile out of the city limits, and has a little over one-half acre of land. Affords a nice lot of shade for tourists; a nice restful spot. Has four rooms; bedroom, kitchen, room for accessories, and also a large room for a lunch room. The only reason the owner is offering this for sale is on account of poor health. The price is $2,700. About $1,200 cash and the balance on easy terms.

Just think of this! Here is a place to live as well as a business at less than the price of a cheap city home. If interested, see me at once as it will soon be in the hands of a new owner.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND IS ASKED

Insurance Advocates open Drive for Enactment Of State Law

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18.—Advocates of unemployment insurance pushed a drive today for early enactment of a state law to conform to the provisions of the federal social security act.

The house labor committee held hearings on the proposed bill. Under it the employer would pay three per cent of his payroll into an unemployment fund. The federal law provides an assessment of one per cent of the payroll for a federal reserve fund.

First Line of Defense
Former Senator Marvin C. Harrison of Cleveland, member of the Ohio unemployment insurance commission appointed by former Governor George White, told the committee last night the present bill, if enacted, "will not solve unemployment, but it will be of the first line of defense against it."

"Remember," he said, "every employer of eight or more persons in Ohio will start paying one per cent of his payroll into the federal treasury next Jan. 1, whether the state has an unemployment insurance law or not."

"And if we don't have an unemployment law, this money will be paid out by Ohio employers and the employees will receive no benefit from it. If we have an unemployment insurance law, Ohio will get back the greater part of what its employers pay into the federal treasury."

No Aid From Employee
Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor, said no contribution from the employee was provided because the federal law requires no contribution from

What You Should Know About Dry Cleaning

There is much about Dry Cleaning that the public should know.

Materials vary, styles change, and the Dry Cleaner must keep up-to-date with the ever-changing textile market so that he may be able to render greater service to the public. The final result of a cleaning job depends upon—

1st—The Construction and Quality of the merchandise.

2nd—The nature of the soil that has affected the material in the article given to the cleaner.

3rd—The Ability and Reliability of the Cleaner to whom you entrust your fabrics.

It is the purpose of Wark's to deliver the very best possible work to the public.

him, and any extra assessment against him would not lessen the amount required by the employer. The committee decided to set a date at which representatives of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and the Ohio Manufacturers' association might appear and advance their arguments. The two organizations indicated they probably would insist on provision in the proposed bill making it ineffective if the federal unemployment insurance law is held unconstitutional.
